3 - Lens Debt Allocation Framework

Liquidity: For very short term parking of surplus or emergency corpus

Core: Ideally forms bulk of your allocation – Funds that focus on high credit quality and low to moderate maturity profile
Satellite: Funds that can take higher risk – either duration risk or credit risk or both

Target Maturity Index Funds are excluded from this framework owing to their fixed tenure and passive management.

We have created a simple framework for segregating the schemes depending on their risks. The framework is constructed around allocating across 3 three buckets: Liquidity, Core, and Satellite; each bucket meeting a specific need. Within these buckets, we have different offerings with different minimum investment horizons that can further aid decision-making.

EQUITY OUTLOOK

The Indian market jumped to record-high levels in November, supported by expectations of monetary policy easing in both the US and India, the election verdict in Bihar, and falling oil prices. The Nifty gained about 2%, while small caps underperformed.

Going forward, a key near-term factor to watch will be the US-India trade agreement. Additionally, a pickup in gold and other imports has widened India's trade deficit, and with capital flows remaining muted, the currency faces some pressure. Overall, we expect the market to remain range bound.

India's real GDP growth for the September quarter, at 8.2% y/y after 7.8% in the June quarter, was well above consensus expectation. Growth in manufacturing, utilities, financial, real estate and professional services picked up which translated into strong growth in private final consumption expenditure on the expenditure side. The strong y/y real GDP growth was also driven by base effect and a low deflator (given low CPI, low WPI and the deflator-calculation methodology). Nominal GDP growth remained moderate at 8.7%, after it slowed to 8.8% in the June quarter from 10.8% in the March quarter. Nominal Core-GVA (GVA excluding Agriculture, forestry & fishing and public administration, defence & other services) grew 9.2% y/y, slightly up from 9% in the June quarter.

As per the central government fiscal data for April-October, gross tax revenue growth was 4% y/y, with corporate tax collection at 5.2% y/y and income tax collection at 6.9%. Net tax revenue growth was -2.4%. Total expenditure was up 6.1% y/y, with revenue expenditure growth flat and capital expenditure up 32%. This is also partly due to base effect because capital expenditure during the same period last year was down 15% y/y. Overall, fiscal deficit for April-October of FY26 was 52.6% of the budget estimate vs. 47.6% last year (latter as % of provisional actuals). The recent GST rate rationalisation exercise has been reported widely to have a net fiscal impact of ~0.2% of GDP, as the gross fiscal impact is partly offset by higher rates on certain luxury/sin goods.

In October, momentum in CPI food and beverage prices stayed negative at -0.2% m/m after -0.4% in September. Momentum in core inflation (CPI excluding food and beverages, fuel and light) was 0.6% m/m, after 0.4% in September. Food price momentum was negative for cereals, pulses, vegetables, fruits, edible oils and spices. It moderated for meat & fish, egg, milk and sugar. Real time data suggests a moderate uptick in prices of cereals, pulses, sugar, potatoes and onions, while tomato prices have risen strongly. However, the outlook for CPI inflation in the next few months continues to be benign.

Industrial production (IP) growth was +0.4% y/y in October, after +4.6% in September. On a seasonally adjusted month-on-month basis, this was -1.9% in October, after +1.2% in September. In October, output momentum turned negative for all categories of goods (primary, capital, intermediate, infrastructure and construction, consumer durable and consumer non-durable goods).

At the end of October 2025, growth in bank credit outstanding as personal loans was 14% y/y, that to services was 13% and that to industry was 10%. Headline bank credit outstanding as on 14th November was 11.4% y/y (vs. 11.5% a month ago) while bank deposit growth was 10.2% vs. 9.5% a month ago). Total bank credit flow during FY26 has been improving, with the total flow during April to October being Rs. 11.2tn (vs. Rs. 8.1tn during the same period last year) and driven by personal loans, while loan to industry and services have also increased. More recently, RBI has also been focusing on regulations to facilitate the flow of credit.

October goods trade deficit increased sharply to USD 41.7bn, after rising to USD 32.2bn in September. The October print was mainly driven by a further rise in gold and non-oil-non-gold imports. Oil trade deficit increased too, and non-oil exports fell. From 27th August, 50% tariffs on India's exports to the US has come into effect, the impact of which will depend on the duration for which the tariff remains, as negotiations are still ongoing. Services trade surplus was USD 17.4bn in October, after USD 18.8bn in September. It averaged USD 17bn in Q2 FY26, after USD 16bn in Q1. It surprised to the upside from late 2022 with an average monthly surplus of USD 11.9bn in FY23 (after USD 9bn in FY22), USD 13.6bn in FY24 and USD 15.7bn in FY25.

India recorded a Current Account Deficit of 1.3% of GDP in the September quarter, after a deficit of 0.3% in the June quarter. Overall BoP balance turned negative to USD -10.9bn from USD +4.5bn in the June quarter. For FY25, the Current Account Deficit (CAD) was 0.6% of GDP, after 0.7% in FY24. The overall BoP balance was a deficit of USD 5bn in FY25, after a surplus of USD 64bn in FY24.

Among higher-frequency variables, number of two-wheelers registered moderated before the effective date of the GST rate cuts (22nd September) but picked up sharply thereafter. It has moderated again in the last two weeks. Energy consumption levels averaged 5.3% y/y during the week ending 08th December 2025. Monthly number of GST e-way bills was 12.7cr units in October, after 13.2cr in September and an average of 13.1cr in the September quarter (vs. 12cr in the June quarter).

US headline CPI was 3% y/y in September, after 2.9% in August. In September, price momentum in energy, apparel, medical care and recreation picked up while that in transport stayed high. Price momentum in food & beverages and housing moderated. Overall, price momentum in goods-excluding-food-and-energy and that in services moderated. Momentum in non-housing-core-services was almost flat. Core CPI was 3% y/y in September, after 3.1% in July and August. In the labour market, US non-farm payroll addition in September (119,000 persons) was a bit higher, but the May-September additions average just ~39,000 persons. The September unemployment rate moved up further to 4.4%, from 4.1% in June, and the growth in average hourly earnings (0.2% m/m) was down from 0.4% in August. Latest official non-farm payroll data is yet to be released after the federal government shutdown in the US ended. Private sector payroll data by ADP reported net reduction of 32,000 jobs in November, after an addition of 47,000 jobs in October, driven by reductions in professional and business services, information services, manufacturing and construction.

At the October US FOMC (Federal Open Market Committee) meeting, the target range for the federal funds rate was cut again by 25bps (to 3.75%-4.00%), a total of 150bps since September last year. It was also decided to end Quantitative Tightening (i.e., balance sheet size reduction), which was already tapered twice, on 1st December. The Fed Chair reiterated the base case of tariff impact being a one-time effect and the shift in balance of risks towards a weaker job market in recent months. There were two dissents on the rate decision, with one for a 50bps cut and one for no cut. What stood out was the Fed Chair's explanation that another rate cut in December is not a foregone conclusion, that there are strongly different views in the committee on the path ahead and so policy is not a preset course. However, some FOMC members thereafter spoke about the space available for a rate cut. The New York Fed President said last month that he still sees room for further near-term adjustment, to move the policy stance closer towards neutral. This increased the odds of a December rate cut. In terms of projections (the latest still being the ones from the September FOMC meeting), Unemployment Rate and Core PCE inflation projections for 2025 were unchanged. The median federal funds rate projected was for two more cuts in 2025 (3 overall of which 2 are now done), and one in 2026. However, the uncertainty around projections remains elevated with risks tilted to the downside for growth, and to the upside for Unemployment Rate and inflation.

Outlook: Crossroads: Interpreting Uncertainty: Monetary Policy Dec 2025

The RBI/MPC cut repo rate by 25 bps to 5.25%, with a unanimous vote. The stance was kept at 'neutral' with one dissent, who favoured a change to 'accommodative'. The commentary was fairly dovish noting the undershoot on inflation and observing that both headline and core inflation are expected to be around the 4% target during the first half of 2026-27. Further the MPC noted that underlying inflationary pressures are even lower as the impact of increase in price of precious metals is about 50 bps. While growth is observed to be resilient now, there is expectation that it may soften somewhat going ahead. Importantly, the guidance is open ended enough for the market not to interpret this as a closing-of-the-door on any future monetary policy action.

The projection updates are summarised below:

	CPI (%y/y)		Real GDP (%y/y)

The RBI announced liquidity measures as well including INR 1 lakh crores of OMO purchase (in two tranches of INR 50,000 crores each on 11th and 18th December) as well as a USD/INR buy/sell swap of USD 5 billion for a tenor of 3 years to be conducted on 16th December.

Takeaways

Apart from the headline takeaways as mentioned above, a key aspect of the policy today in our view was to be able to absorb some of the interpretational uncertainties of the market. The context going in was one of weaker inflation, stronger real growth in first half of the year (though with some statistical peculiarities), and some external account pressures reflecting in recent rupee weakening. Basis the sum total of these, the market had gone in quite confused with respect to likely action. Also, recent secondary market purchases of bonds by RBI had led some participants to believe that the central bank is trying to cap bond yields. Finally, from time to time, the market has tended to interpret RBI's variable rate operations as signalling comfort / discomfort and accordingly there has been some propensity (though not much) to attribute directional monetary policy bias to these operations.

The outstanding feature of the policy today, in our view, was the clarity provided on almost all these fronts:

1. The MPC statement clarifies the current reaction function on policy rate setting: First half growth has been strong but there are risks ahead. Inflation is low and underlying pressures are muted. This combination is enough to provide room for further monetary accommodation and keep forward guidance still open ended. Notably, the rupee doesn't come in this calculation.
2. The Governor notes: "I would further like to reiterate that the primary instrument of monetary policy is the policy repo rate. It is expected that changes in the short-term interest rates will transmit to various long-term rates. At the same time, the primary purpose of open market operations is to provide sufficient liquidity and not to directly influence G-sec yields."

This seems a breath of fresh air to us since, excluding the pandemic period, there has been no evidence in our assessment that RBI does OMOs to anchor bond yields. We make this observation simply because almost all OMO periods (including the current announcement) have been roughly predictable basis calculations of actual and evolving core liquidity. And yet sections of the market have always insisted that there are yield signals embedded.

3. The Governor also notes: "So, it is quite possible that we inject durable liquidity through purchase of government securities under OMO on the one hand while simultaneously withdrawing transient liquidity through a VRRR operation on the other hand."

Conclusion and Market Implications

The policy today is unequivocally bullish given both the actions taken and the interpretations provided. Should concurrent growth indicators weaken reflecting continued tariff uncertainties and possible fading off of 'pent up' GST cut impact on consumption, then market will not be able to rule out a final rate cut, though such a cut is likely to have very limited incremental utility. Thus, not only has overnight rate dropped today but the expectation channel for more isn't fully shut down as well. This is a good combination for bonds.

That said, one has to also appreciate the somewhat lower flexibilities that we currently enjoy on both the external and fiscal accounts. Also, the underlying backdrop remains one of relatively low risk appetite for bonds and a likely rise in SDL supply into the year end. Thus, we don't expect sustainable duration demand to re-emerge and think that the 5 – 8 year government bond sector remains the sweet spot.

This assessment reflects a long period of 5.25% (or lower) policy rate, RBI's proactive stance on liquidity, and current valuation. At the time of writing, the 5-year government bond yield is around 95 – 100 bps over the current repo rate and 75 – 80 bps over the 1-year treasury bill. This also serves to emphasize the point that the yield curve is generally steep, and not specifically versus the long end alone. In our view, one should 'receive' this steepness at places where going forward appetite is likely to be stronger (5 – 8 year). The long end doesn't pass that test for us at this point, for reasons mentioned above.

We had raised cash levels anticipating higher market volatility (Click here). The recent few days post stronger real GDP and weaker rupee had disturbed market rate cut expectation and led to rise in yields and some bear flattening of the yield curve. We used that opportunity to deploy back our cash positions and we are back to being overweight 5 – 8 year government bonds. We expect the sovereign curve to remain steeper, and this strategy reflects the expectation. On the other hand, the corporate curve may see stickiness at the 1-year point given rising credit to deposit ratio. Also spread assets (duration corporate bonds and SDLs) may underperform equivalent tenors government bonds into the fiscal year end. We expect RBI to most likely follow through with another INR 1 lakh crores of OMOs after December.

The importance of 'FIRST PRINCIPLES' when investing in DEBT MUTUAL FUNDS

Suyash Choudhary,
Head - Fixed Income

Identifying Risk in Debt Mutual Funds (MFs)

- Interest rate risk

Risk of loss owing to changes in interest rates. This risk is best captured by the duration of the fund.

- Credit risk

Risk of loss owing to change in credit profile of an issuer that leads either to a downgrade or default.'

Identifying own risk profile

Since mutual funds cannot guarantee returns, it is very important to appropriately identify one's own risk profile while deciding where to invest. If one wants a risk profile that is the closest to a fixed deposit, one has to choose a debt fund that controls both the interest rate and credit risk.

The First Principles Requirements from a Mutual Fund (MF)

Remember to look for one where majority of the investments are liquid; which means that the fund manager should be able to sell them at least in ordinary market conditions.

Some False Premises

There are some false premises in debt fund investing that one should be aware of:

MFs can manage liquidity via exit loads

In many cases chiefly for credit risk funds, because a significant part of the portfolio consists of illiquid securities, the fund manager relies on suitable exit loads to deter redemption. In some sense, some sort of an asset liability management (ALM) framework is used. So asset maturity is in 'buckets' basis the exit load periods of investors. Exit loads are no doubt a large detriment for redeeming from a mutual fund. However, by no stretch of the imagination can they be relied upon as a sufficiently high detriment. As has already been shown in the Indian market as well, if the investor concern is strong enough, she can pay exit load and redeem.

Even AAA can default, so why bother?

Recent events have evoked this response in certain quarters. As an admittedly extreme analogy this is somewhat akin to saying food can sometimes make you choke, so why eat! The probability of AAA defaulting is negligible. This has been proved with data over multiple decades. This doesn't mean it can never happen. However, to use a once-in-a-blue moon default and paint a general principle is not advisable at all. Also with some due diligence, the weaker AAA can be generally weeded out by the fund manager in most cases.

Conclusions

The attempt here has been to highlight some first principles that will hopefully serve well when making allocations to fixed income mutual funds. Some of the key takeaways are summarized below:

1. Investors should first be aware of individual risk profile. Assuming debt investments are first made for conservatism, a majority of allocations should be to full AAA funds in the low duration / short term / medium term / corporate bond / Banking PSU categories.
2. Credit is a risk just like interest rates are. It can lead to both positive as well as negative outcomes. The key is to allocate to both credit and duration in the so-called 'alpha' bucket' and not in the core debt allocation bucket.
3. An open ended debt mutual fund should first and foremost fulfill the criterion that a majority of its portfolio should have liquidity and price discovery via the open market. This enables seamless redemption management, consistency in portfolio profile even with inflows and redemptions, and the discovery of NAV that is largely accurate.
4. A lot of discussion on credit revolves around quality of manager and depth of research process. What is equally important, however, is to ask this: Is the nature of risk being taken consistent with the vehicle being used to take the risk? More specifically, are open ended mutual funds the appropriate vehicle to take on such positions?

This scheme has exposure to floating rate instruments and / or interest rate derivatives. The duration of these instruments is linked to the interest rate reset period. The interest rate risk in a floating rate instrument or in a fixed rate instrument hedged with derivatives is likely to be lesser than that in an equivalent maturity fixed rate instrument. Under some market circumstances the volatility may be of an order greater than what may ordinarily be expected considering only its duration. Hence investors are recommended to consider the unadvised portfolio maturity of the scheme as well and exercise adequate due diligence when deciding to make their investments

This scheme has exposure to floating rate instruments and / or interest rate derivatives. The duration of these instruments is linked to the interest rate reset period. The interest rate risk in a floating rate instrument or in a fixed rate instrument hedged with derivatives is likely to be lesser than that in an equivalent maturity fixed rate instrument. Under some market circumstances the volatility may be of an order greater than what may ordinarily be expected considering only its duration. Hence investors are recommended to consider the unadjusted portfolio maturity of the scheme as well and exercise adequate due diligence when deciding to make their investments.

Past performance may or may not be sustained in future. Income Distribution and Capital Withdrawal are assumed to be reinvested and bonus is adjusted. Load is not taken into consideration. To illustrate the advantages of SIP investment, this is how your investment would have grown if you had invested say ₹10,000 systematically on the first business Day of every month over a period of time. Returns are calculated by using XIRR approach. XIRR helps in calculating return on investment given an initial and final value and a series of cash inflows and outflows with the correct allowance for the time impact of the transactions. Past performance may or may not be sustained in future. Income Distribution and Capital Withdrawal are assumed to be reinvested and bonus is adjusted. Load is not taken into consideration. To illustrate the advantages of SIP investment, this is how your investment would have grown if you had invested say ₹10,000 systematically on the first business day of every month over a period of time. Returns are calculated by using XIRR approach. XIRR helps in calculating return on investment given an initial and final value and a series of cash inflows and outflows with the correct allowance for the time impact of the transactions. The performances given are of regular plan growth option. Regular and Direct Plans have different expense structure. Direct Plan shall have a lower expense ratio excluding distribution expenses, commission expenses etc. [#]Benchmark Returns. ^{##}Additional Benchmark Returns. Data as on November 28, 2025. ^{*}The returns are calculated without rebalancing the benchmark value. [^]The returns are calculated post rebalancing the benchmark value on monthly basis.

Past performance may or may not be sustained in future. Income Distribution and Capital Withdrawal are assumed to be reinvested and bonus is adjusted. Load is not taken into consideration. To illustrate the advantages of SIP investment, this is how your investment would have grown if you had invested say ₹10,000 systematically on the first business day of every month over a period of time. Returns are calculated by using XIRR approach. XIRR helps in calculating return on investment given an initial and final value and a series of cash inflows and outflows with the correct allowance for the time impact of the transactions. The performances given are of regular plan growth option. Regular and Direct Plans have different expense structure. Direct Plan shall have a lower expense ratio excluding distribution expenses, commission expenses etc. *Benchmark Returns. Additional Benchmark Returns. Data as on November 28, 2025. *The returns are calculated without rebalancing the benchmark value. ^The returns are calculated post rebalancing the benchmark value on monthly basis.

How to read Factsheet
Fund Manager An employee of the asset management company such as a mutual fund or life insurer, who manages investments of the scheme. He is usually part of a larger team of fund managers and research analysts. Application Amount for Fresh Subscription This is the minimum investment amount for a new investor in a mutual fund scheme. Minimum Additional Amount This is the minimum investment amount for an existing investor in a mutual fund scheme. Yield to Maturity The Yield to Maturity or the YTM is the rate of return anticipated on a bond if held until maturity. YTM is expressed as an annual rate. The YTM factors in the bond's current market price, par value, coupon interest rate and time to maturity. SIP SIP or systematic investment plan works on the principle of making periodic investments of a fixed sum. It works similar to a recurring bank deposit. For instance, an investor may opt for an SIP that invests Rs 500 every 15th of the month in an equity fund for a period of three years. NAV The NAV or the net asset value is the total asset value per unit of the mutual fund after deducting all related and permissible expenses. The NAV is calculated at the end of every business day. It is the value at which the investor enters or exits the mutual fund. Benchmark A group of securities, usually a market index, whose performance is used as a standard or benchmark to measure investment performance of mutual funds, among other investments. Some typical benchmarks include the Nifty, Sensex, BSE200, BSE500, 10-Year Gsec. Entry Load A mutual fund may have a sales charge or load at the time of entry and/or exit to compensate the distributor/agent. Entry load is charged at the time an investor purchases the units of a mutual fund. The entry load is added to the prevailing NAV at the time of investment. For instance, if the NAV is ₹100 and the entry load is 1%, the investor will enter the fund at ₹101. Note: SEBI, vide circular dated June 30, 2009 has abolished entry load and mandated that the upfront commission to distributors will be paid by the investor directly to the distributor, based on his assessment of various factors including the services rendered by the distributor. Tracking Error A divergence between the price behavior of a position or a portfolio and the price behavior of a benchmark Exit Load Exit load is charged at the time an investor redeems the units of a mutual fund.	The exit load is deducted from the prevailing NAV at the time of redemption. For instance, if the NAV is ₹ 100 and the exit load is 1%, the redemption price would be ₹ 99 per unit. Modified Duration Modified duration is the price sensitivity and the percentage change in price for a unit change in yield Macaulay Duration The Macaulay duration is the weighted average term to maturity of the cash flows from bonds. In other words, it is the weighted average number of years an investor must maintain a position in the bond until the present value of the bond's cash flows equals the amount paid for the bond. Standard Deviation Standard deviation is a statistical measure of the range of an investment's performance. When a mutual fund has a high standard deviation, it means its range of performance is wide, implying greater volatility. Sharpe Ratio The Sharpe Ratio, named after its founder, the Nobel Laureate William Sharpe, is a measure of risk-adjusted returns. It is calculated using standard deviation and excess return to determine reward per unit of risk. Beta Beta is a measure of an investment's volatility vis-a-vis the market. Beta of less than 1 means that the security will be less volatile than the market. A beta of greater than 1 implies that the security's price will be more volatile than the market. AUM AUM or assets under management refers to the recent / updated cumulative market value of investments managed by a mutual fund or any investment firm. Holdings The holdings or the portfolio is a mutual fund's latest or updated reported statement of investments/securities. These are usually displayed in terms of percentage to net assets or the rupee value or both. The objective is to give investors an idea of where their money is being invested by the fund manager. Nature of Scheme The investment objective and underlying investments determine the nature of the mutual fund scheme. For instance, a mutual fund that aims at generating capital appreciation by investing in stock markets is an equity fund or growth fund. Likewise, a mutual fund that aims at capital preservation by investing in debt markets is a debt fund or income fund. Each of these categories may have sub-categories. Rating Profile Mutual funds invest in securities after evaluating their creditworthiness as disclosed by the ratings. A depiction of the mutual fund in various investments based on their ratings becomes the rating profile of the fund. Typically, this is a feature of debt funds.
